

“Milk Modeling”

Richard Turlington, NCSSM ‘93

These columns of milk were produced when the platform on which the milk drops initially rested was accelerated rapidly downward. The drops were stretched downward. The milk was colored with different mixtures of food dye.