

“Ripples on a Racquetball”

Sean McGrew, NCSSM '92

The dimple and ring on this racquetball were formed about half way through the ball's collision with a hard surface. The ball struck the surface at about 60 mph, and the collision lasted less than five thousandths of a second.