

Splash on a Concavity

Hans Choe, Corey Hadley, Stuart Pratt, Sharon Roberson

October, 2000

Camera: Sony DKC-FP3

The surface onto which the milk was dropped was prepared by placing a shallow metallic dome, painted black, onto the bottom of an inverted wine glass. The surface allowed the milk to drain and also widened the diameter of the splash compared to the width it would have had on a level surface.