

Milk Drop in Water

Brett Goldstein, 1990

Camera: Nikon FM2 (film)

A drop of milk fell into a thin layer of water from a previous drop. The jewels on the crown don't show much evidence of milk mixing with the water. The sides of the crown are more nearly vertical than for a splash of milk into milk.